Santa Claus To Take War Toys In Bewildering Array To British Tols This Year

To British I ols I has I car

London, Eng., Oct. 22.—The nursery promises to be an arsenal, with every modern war device of defence this forthcoming Christmas season, for the British toy manufacturers have turned out an almost bewildering variety of war toys and games. An anti-alreraft breech-loading steel gun which, like the famous French 75-mm, has all the particular of the famous French 75-mm, has all the particular of the famous French 75-mm, has all the particular of the famous french games of a lamp fitted with a perisone and elevating crew.

This will be flanked by a humble relation in the form of a wooden alreraft gun with metal elevation screws. Sixty-pounder and 6.7 cannon which by means of a lamp arranged near the barrel end, fire a match with quite a realistic lang, augment the Christmas nursery defences.

Maneuvers are performed by "Bomboo" one of the novelties in war games, also directed against hostile aircraft. Colored illustrations of German cities stand round a central pivot, round which circle two of the allies' airplanes. These carry bombs which explode when a spring is touched.
